

Preventing Computer & Internet Crime

Tuesday, August 29, 2006

12:00pm -1:30pm

Riverstone Technology Park, South Boston, VA

Companies and individuals rely on services and resources provided by computers networks daily. Due to this, it is vital to take steps to protect computer systems and the data that is stored on them.

Rusty McGuire, assistant attorney general in the Computer Crime Unit, will be our guest speaker. He will discuss common types of computer related crime, effects of computer and internet crime and crime prevention methods.

You can register online, by phone 434-766-6771 or email. Cost is $20 for SPTC members and $25 for non-members. Lunch is included, so registration is required.
